Equity markets continued to fall with the selloff accelerating on Wednesday following a record high Eurozone inflation reading of 9.1% for the month of August, which is expected to result in tighter monetary policy. The S&P 500, NASDAQ and FTSE 100 closed -5.6%, -6.8% and -4.4% lower respectively.

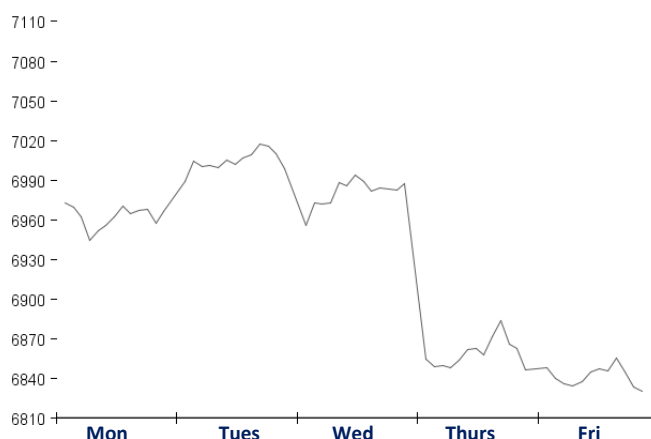

S&P/ASX 200 - Top five of the week

ASX Code	Company	Closing Price	Change
A2M	The a2 Milk Company Ltd	$5.77	17.9%
QAN	Qantas Airways Ltd	$5.28	8.6%
CUV	Clinuvel Pharmaceuticals Ltd	$19.26	8.6%
WEB	Webjet Ltd	$5.41	7.9%
BGA	Bega Cheese Ltd	$3.93	5.4%

Prices as at 3.00PM on 02/09/2022

A2 Milk rose after announcing double digit revenue and earnings growth, as well as a $150 million on market buyback. Qantas announced a $1.9 billion underlying loss but positive operating cash flow of $2.7 billion which will enable a $400 million on market buyback. Biotechnology company Clinuvel announced a 38% increase in revenue which was welcomed by the market despite the fall in net profit to $21 million as expenses grew faster than revenue.

S&P/ASX 200 Index – 1 Week Performance

The Hang Seng continued to outperform other international equity markets, however, still declined -1.9% as the market considered the impact of China's ¥7.2 trillion infrastructure plan. The S&P/ASX 200 fell by -4.1% with the Materials sector the primary detractor. Small companies underperformed large caps amidst the market sell off.

S&P/ASX 200 - Bottom five of the week

ASX Code	Company	Closing Price	Change
PBH	Pointsbet Holdings Ltd	$2.34	-27.3%

Topic of the week

On 16 August 2022 US President Joe Biden signed into law the Inflation Reduction Act of 2022 which included a raft of measures not entirely related to lowering the price of goods and services in the economy. The measures detailed included:

- A minimum tax of 15% on domestic corporations with income above US$1 billion over a specified 3-year period.
- A 1% excise tax on the fair market value of any stock repurchased by a domestic corporation.
- Additional funding for the Internal Revenue Service to ensure taxpayer compliance.
- A requirement for Medicare and Medicaid Services to negotiate a maximum price for certain prescription drugs with no generic equivalents and impose required rebates on drug manufacturers.
- Tax credits for renewable resource development which includes alternative fuels such as biodiesel and nuclear.
- Excise taxes on petroleum and coal.
- Research tax credits for small businesses.
- Additional funding for the USDA's Natural Resources Conservation Service to provide technical assistance to a program to quantify carbon sequestration and other programs to support the generation, storage and usage of renewable energy in rural areas. The funding will also provide reforestation initiatives, wildfire prevention and other forest resilience programs.
- Funding for the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration to protect coastal communities from extreme storms and other climate conditions including measures to improve weather forecasting.
- Funding for Department of Energy to improve energy efficiency in buildings and improved transmission lines that are of national interest.
- A Bill to increase the availability of low-enriched uranium for advanced nuclear reactors.
- Funding for drought response measures, offshore wind, air quality information collection, hazardous material reduction and other greenhouse gas reduction measures.

As seen above, despite the title of the Act, there is instead a focus on climate change measures which of particular interest included increased investment in nuclear. Notably Japan and Europe have also signaled increased interest in nuclear technology which had been largely avoided following the Fukushima nuclear disaster in 2011. Despite sluggish progress away from fossil fuels over the last decade, there has been a renewed push towards transitioning economies away from fossil fuels, evidence by this Act, in recent months driven by the combination of elevated energy prices and the high reliance on Russia for many of these fuels.
